

quick picks

BY JESSICA HARTSHORN

Ju-Ju-Be Be All We love the rich prints on Ju-Ju-Be bags. Also cool: a built-in picture frame on the inside and tons of inner pockets and pouches ($118; kiwikidsgear.com).

GR8X Satchel Great Expectations offers a two-year warranty on its pretty and sturdy bag. A matching paci holder and stroller straps are included ($70; regallager.com).

Skip Hop Via Backpack Like all Skip Hop bags, this one can hang on a stroller, but it's also light and easy on your back if you happen to be carrying your child ($70; skiphop.com).

Diaper Duty

We like diaper bags that appeal to our sense of style. No offense to bags with duckies or bears, but moms are grown-ups! Here are just a few out of the huge range of options, from bare bones to bells and whistles.

Kalencom Heather Tweed Tote It looks like a weekend bag, but it's ready for diaper changes; the bottle and wipes holders are matching tweed ($70; kalencom.com).

Merona Canvas Tote This smart-looking bag opens wide, making it easy to grab what you need from inside. But its biggest asset is its bargain price ($20; Target).

Wendy Bellissimo Camouflage Messenger The designer (a mom of four) put a laminated supply list and a photo holder in the bag ($60; select Babies "R" Us stores).

ab americanbaby.com/diaperbags Want to see more of the most stylish diaper bags around?